

FLASH FROM 4500

Walt Disney World

DAY CARE CENTER

As a result of a recently-completed survey, Walt Disney World has completed research into the possibility of providing a Day-Care Center for children of Walt Disney World employees.

This research indicated that the Walt Disney World Day-Care Center would probably be the largest in the world. It would require more than 30,000 sq. feet in order to accommodate the 600 children which would use the center.

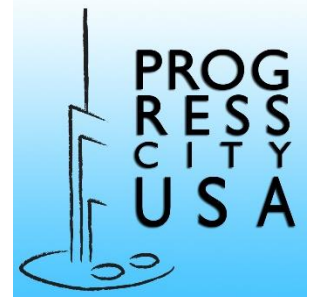

The sole object of the proposed Walt Disney World Day-Care Center was to, of course, assure quality service at rates under the existing area rate schedule and to provide this service to working parents currently unable to afford day care service.

Every possible effort has been made to provide this service, but the size of the operation required would result in a rate schedule that would not be of benefit to the Walt Disney World employees. Due to the size of this operation, rates would actually be higher than existing area rates.

This document has been brought to you by

The Progress City Disneyana Collection

A Project of Progress City, U.S.A.

Historians and Authors please cite "The Progress City Disneyana Collection" when referencing this item. Thank you!

To support the Progress City Public Library's efforts, please visit our Patreon

Or donate via PayPal